

April 4, 2018

#RileyFellows in the News

Ricaye Harris (Upstate Fall 2017), talent acquisition specialist at Milliken Company, received the Milliken Diversity & Inclusion Award, which recognizes those who have demonstrated a clear commitment to these principles and actively promotes them within the workplace. Read more.

Katherine Swartz Hilton (Midlands, Spring 2013) has been promoted to executive director of the McNair Center for Entrepreneurism and Community Engagement at Columbia College. Read more.

Moryah Jackson (Midlands, Spring 2014), was named director of diversity education at Clemson University in the Office of Inclusion and Equity. Read more.

Bonnie Loomis (Midlands, Spring 2012) has been named executive director of the South Carolina Clean Energy Business Alliance. Read more.

Adam Parker (Lowcountry, Fall 2009), reporter with The Post & Courier, has published a biography of Cleveland Sellers (Lowcountry, Fall 2010), retired president of Voorhees College, whose life story personifies America's continuing civil rights struggle. Read more.

Marvin Quattlebaum (Upstate, Fall 2003), partner with Nelson Mullins Riley & Scarborough LLP, was confirmed by the U.S. Senate as a U.S. District Judge for South Carolina. Read more.

Antjuan Seawright (Midlands, Spring 2012), founder and CEO of Blueprint Strategy and former deputy director of the South Carolina Democratic Caucus, received the Southeastern Association of Educational Opportunity Program Personnel's 2018 TRIO Achievers Award. Read more.

Gage Weekes (Upstate, Fall 2016), has been named president and CEO at Hollingsworth Funds. Read more.

Thanks to all Upstate Riley Fellows who submitted nominations for the 2018 Upstate Diversity Leadership Awards. Join us to celebrate the winners on May 24 at the 14th annual Upstate Diversity Leadership Awards Dinner, hosted by the Riley Institute and the Greenville Chamber of Commerce, in partnership with Upstate Chambers. Keynote speaker will be our very own Juan Johnson! Register.